Stroke Story: My Journey There and Back: The Powerful Story of a Woman's Survival of a Devastating Brain Hemorrhage Mary Ellen Gambutti

The life of an active, healthy, creative 57-years young woman is dramatically changed by a major hemorrhagic stroke while on a community bus trip into Western Pennsylvania highlands. Her foray into an unknown wilderness of brain trauma; her sudden powerlessness, and her fight against the odds of recovery, are an inspiration to survivors of stroke or other brain trauma, as well as to their caretakers. Mary Ellen's determination and courage in the face of adversity are portrayed in a narrative replete with descriptive imagery and emotion. Stroke Story traces a woman's transformational journey from landscape gardener, craftsperson and volunteer, into helplessness, but with hard work and expert care, a return to hope and renewal of a creative life.
