Helena never had good luck in love... so she got pregnant on her own, with the help of a fertility clinic. ... and Saint was a bad boy, going through a string of endless women, each of his days emptier than the last. Helena lives her life by the rules. She's an outstanding student advisor, a flawless mother of a precocious five year-old girl, and a proud single woman, done with men who have no respect for her. Those rules are thrown to the wind when the notification from the fertility center comes to Helena's email. Saint Corbett is the biological father of her child--and he wants to meet his child. He's sexy, he's built, he's a legend among the women of Los Angeles... and he's the most infuriating man she's ever met. Against every bit of her better judgment, she trusts him... and he's beginning to break down all the barriers in her heart. When Helena Landon walks into Saint's office, he has no idea what's hit him. She's smart, beautiful, intense-and totally unattainable. As difficult as it is to win her heart, Saint is certain Helena is the answer to every unanswered question in his life. And he'll do everything in his power not to let her down.
